

SALE OF A FREEHOLD RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

What does the service cover?

The precise stages involved in the sale of a standard freehold residential property vary according to the circumstances but the following gives an overview of the key stages:

- Pre-Exchange of Contracts – prepare contract documentation, reply to legal enquiries, procure signed documents.
- Effecting the Exchange of Contracts - whereby you enter a legally binding contract to sell the property.
- Pre-Completion – procure signed documents and prepare financial statement.
- Effecting Completion - transfer of money for mortgage redemption and net proceeds, payment of agent’s commission if applicable and release of keys.
- Post Completion - attend to any formalities with your lender and the Land Registry to ensure redemption of your mortgage and registration of the change of ownership is completed.

How long will it take?

How long it will take from you accepting an offer until completion will depend on a number of factors. The average process takes between 8 to 12 weeks but it can be quicker or slower, depending on the parties in the chain. For example, if you are selling to a first time buyer who is not getting a mortgage and you are not buying another property, it could take as little as 4 weeks. However, if you are selling an unregistered property with several other connected freehold or leasehold transactions in the “chain”, this can take significantly longer.
